With that usually brilliant youngster, Jack Townsend, in the box, the Washington team opened an engagement at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon, and, after the first inning, were never in the race. Inability to puncture the delivery of Jack Powell at times when hits would have meant runs was the primary cause of the Senators' defeat. The score Base hits are generally conceded to be Base hits are generally conceded to be the best material for the manufacture of runs, but, while the Senators bagged more of these than the Browns, they falled to get the runs. The error column on the St. Louis side of the score is misleading. The errors were all made, but only one or two of them materially affected the score. Powell was brilliantly supported in tight places, while on the bases the Browns u.d about as they pleased.

Senators Have Not Improved.
The big Saturday crowd was kept in good humor by the antics of Colonel Dick "Payson, the same sensational fletding in which J. Emmett Hedrick and John Anderson were the stars. The Senators do not look as strong as the team which visited here in June, and took a series from the Erowns. In the absence of George Carrey, who is laid up in the East, Ed Delethanty covered the initial sack. Juck Doyle, the eratwhile Giant, cavorted around the second one of the short field. Billy Keister stood in the right satisfied and Coughin held down third base.

The position vacated by Harry Wolverton.

coupled with good base running, gave the Browns twelve runs. They drew a cipher in the first, but scored in every inning after that except the ninth. Everyhody took a crack at Townsend except Farry. McCormick and Mike Kahoe. Of course Charley Hemphill worked in his usual home tun, and altogether it was an afternoon of pleasure for the spectators.

The istowns degan on Townsend in the second, when Wallace walked, stole second and scored on Padden's single. Kahoe falled to hit safe, but Jack Powell reached for one of Townsend's floaters and straightened it out for two bases, scoring Padden.

"Payden" Has Some Fan.

Lew Drill was a mark for the McAlcerlief. Nearly every throw drawn from Drill gave the Brownles an opportunity to move up. Padden, in particular, amused himself with Drill. "Brains" furnished amusement in two innings. In the fifth he singled, and while Drill held the ball in his hand he started for second. Drill was sleeping and Padden's yell brought him to life with a wild throw to center field.

In the seventh Padden repeated. After tearing off his second hit he brought Drill into action with another wild throw to the outfield, which haid for "Foxy Grandpa's" transportation around to third.

In the third inning the McAleerites profited by an error and a base on balls. Ely's low throw to Delehanty on Heidrick was followed by the issuing of a pass to Hemphill. Anderson's single scorred Heidrick and Wallace's long fly to Lee put Hemphill in the clear. In the fourth, after Kahoe and Powell had been stored away, the locals squeezed in three more runs. Burkett laid down one of his old-time bunts. Heidrick walked. Hemphill drove a liner to center that scored the pair. The drive was so hot that Ryan failed to knock it down and Sir Charles continued around the sacks.

As a starter in the fifth, Wallace beet Delehanty in a sprint for the initial sack, after Big Ed had fielded his warm drive. "McCormick sacrificed and Padden smashed to center. When Padden drew a wild throw from Drill. Wallace counted.

Charley Hemphill's record for the day was a brillant one. Both of his hits enabled him to make the trip around the sacks, and he drove in five of the St. Louis runs. In the sixth inning after Ryan had muffed Burkett's short fly. Heldrick sacrificed. Then Hemphill worked in a victous drivs to the bulletin board and stretched it into a home run, though narrowly escaped being nipped at the plate.

In the meanwhile the Senators were being handed goose eggs by Powell and though they worked in hits in nearly every inning they could not connect with the plate until the fifth. Anderson's error in falling to stop Coughlin's drive to left, was followed by Lee's bunt. Ely then drove to center and Coughlin scored. Drill's fly to Heldrick sent Lee home. Townsend nearly tore Powell's hand off with a stinging liner, but neither Ryan nor Doyle could relieve the congestion on the bases.

With the Browns far in the lead, Powell apparently eased up toward the last and even then the visitors could not score again until the ninth. The Browns picked up another pair of runs in the eighth, just to make sure of the game. McCormick drew a pass and advanced on a wild pitch. He could have scored on Padden's smash to right, but as there was no one out he preferred to take his time about getting home, and easily scored when Kahoe skied to Ryan.

At this stage of the game, Padden drew

Ryan.

At this stage of the game, Padden drew another throw from Drill and the latter shied the leather to center field. On Powell's rap to Coughlin, Padden was caught off base and finally tagged. Powell went to second while they were putting Dick away and chased home when Burkett slammed to left for a base.

The Senators put on a good finish, encouraged by the crowd which always roots for the under dog in such a game. Ely hit to left and Drill doubled to the same territory. Townsend shot a bingle to right and Ely scored. Drill was doubled with Ryan when the latter lined into Wallace's glove. Doyle worked in a single and Townsend scored on Delehanty's two-bagger to right.

CHICAGO S, BOSTON 7. Game Becomes Sensational in the Closing Innings.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Chicago and Boston played a game that was sensational in the extreme in the clossing innings. The home team went way to the front in the seventh inning by bunching six hits. Boston tied them in the eighth, when they punished Piatt for three singles and three doubles. An error, a sacrifice and a single gave them the lead in the ninth, but the locals wen in their half on a single, Green's triple and a long fly. Mertes's one-handed catch of a long ilner and his throw to the plate were features. Attendance, 10,700. Score:

DONAHUE VS. ORTH. Star Pitchers Will Clash in To-Day's

Game at Sportsman's Park. Frank Donahue and Al Orth, the two star twirlers of the Philadelphia National League team of 1901, will oppose each other in the box in this afternoon's game at Sportsman's Park, the second of the series between the Browns and Washington. With between the Browns and Washington. With these two pliching generals in the fray the game should be hard fought. Orth has proved the winning twirler of the Senators this year, while Donahue's record is well known to local fans.

Besides being a clever twirler, Orth is regarded as the best hitting plicher in the league, and behind him the Senators generally put up a stiff argument. Donahue is out to trim his old side partner, for his memory reverts back to a day in June went the Senators, with Orth in the box, gave him the worst mauling he has taken this year. June 12 the Senators touched Donahue for thirteen hits, including a pair of home runs and scored eleven runs against one for the Browns. Therefore "Red" intimates there will be something doing when he ties up with Orth again.

The same yesterday was well attended and the crowd warmed up to the Browns in hearty fashion. Unless rain spoils the day the attendance should be good. Secretary Hedges is preparing to entertain one of the biggest crowds of the season. Nothing but the hot fight that is being waged in the first division has kept the Browns out of first place for Chicago has indeed been lucky. The Browns are working like beavers to overhaul their rivals from the other end of the drainage canal and hope to kind in first place before the close of the Washington series.

Washington series.

There was some grand fielding behnid Powell yesterday. In the seventh inning Emmett Heidrick robbed Jack Doyle of a hit and cut off a run by one of the most sensational catches seen on the local grounds this year. Drill was on second with two out when Doyle drove the ball on a line far out to center and over toward left. Not ten persons in the stands thought Heidrick could get it, but running back toward the bieachers, half turned to keep his eye on the ball, he leaped into the air and captured the ball. That catch proved that Heidrick need doff his hat to no outfielder in the business. Twice he was compelled to acknowledge the appliause that greeted his effort. Heidrick bids fair to steadily improve in batting. Since his excellent record of Thursday he has been hitting the ball hard and playing the game in every department. In the first inning he drove the ball out on a line for two bases. He was passed to first once and get there another time on an error. He had one sacrifice hit to his credit, and all together finished well ahead on the day.

John Anderson plays such a steady game

John Anderson plays such a steady game around the initial sack that the fans do not often have a chance to applaud him, as he makes the hard ones look easy. Yesterday makes the hard ones look easy. Yesterday Anderson made a sensational stop of Delehanty's stinging grounder in the sixth inning. When Big Del hits them they generally travel, and his drive to right looked safe. But Anderson leaped over and stuck his glove in front of the ball, falling down as he made the stop. He jumped up quickly and beat Del in a sprint for the bag.

The Cardinals won't win many games with The Cardinais won't win many games with one hit, but it is not often they are held to that number. Donovan and his men will rest to-day. The final Brooklyn game will be played to-morrow and then the Cardinais move on to Philadelphia, where they should find some easy picking.

J. J. Sommers—No official averages are issued until the end of the season. Unofficial averages, however, serve to give a line on what records the players are making. UNTIL CURED. DOCTOR MILEN.

Varicocele Gured in One Week.

There is, perhaps, no ailment prevalent among men that numbers such a large percentage of victims as Varicocele. In a recent report of Surgeon General Sternberger of the United States Army it was shown that out of 9.815 recruits examined for the army 2.078 were afflicted with Varicoccie, and were, in consequence, rejected. From these figures the conclusion is clear that fully 25 per cent of all men have Varicoccie, it is a disease that constantly grows worse, and is of such a grave character that any one afflicted with it is deemed unfit for army or navy duty in this country. Varicoccie is an aliment whose presence is easily determined by the layman. It is an enlargement of the veins of the scrotum, and to the touch there is a feeling shinkar to a bunch of earth worms. Hackache, headache and a condition generally as in all nervous aliments are among the reflex symptoms, for Varicoccie has such a direct effect on the nerves that it produces, in time, a pronounced condition of Nervous Debility, with its train of attending evils. Atrophied or weak, shrunken organs, or complete impotency is the ultimate and inevitable ending of neglected Varicoccie.

I cure this disease, to stay cured, within the short period of one week. The treatment is a painless one. I gu cannot be cured so quickly, thoroughly and effectively by any other specialist or physician in America, as my method of treatment is purely original with me. With the absolute cure of the disease, all reflex conditions are removed and there is established the perfect standard of health demanded in men who would serve their country—a standard that every man who would serve their country—a standard that every man who would serve their country— 2,078 were afflicted with Varicocele, and were, in consequ

Blood Poison's Horrors

Speedly Banished by My Specific Treatment.

Blood Poison is a universal disease-one that is so highly contagious that oftentimes persons handling the clothing, using the same brush or towel, or drinking from the same vessel, are the same brush or towel, or drinking from the same vessel, are inoculated. The symptoms of this hideous disease cannot be mistaken. Eruptions on the skin, sores or ulcers in the mouth and throat, copper-colored spots on different parts of the body and the loss of hair and eyebrows are infallible signs of Contagious Blood Poison. It is anything but a simple disease, and should never be trified with. You may have taken many remedies and treated with many physicians, but the aching bornes and slight rheumatic pains, the annoying little ulcers and pimples that periodically break out remind you that you are not cured—that the poison is still in your system.

I have treated thousands of cases of contagious blood poison. In the property of the pro

I have treated thousands of cases of contagious blood poison and have never scored a single failure, thereby demonstrating by its curative powers that my treatment is a specific for this dread malady. It destroys the disease in any stage, eradicates it completely and permanently from the system, and removes all danger of contaminating others or transmitting it to posterity.

in Chicago recently, because it was claimed certain corporations refused to employ a man after he had reached the age of 45. Is a man of 45 too old to hold his own with his working fellows of fewer years? It is merely a question of health that determines a man's usefulness at any age. It's an old and true saying that a man is as old as he feels. Good health, in a majority of cases, is a question of nerves.

Our national characteristics are notably such as to invite a premature decline in force and energy through overuse of our nervous systems. This is especially true in the case of men, and accounts for the alarming prevalence among the male population of the country of that mulady best described by the term Nervous Debility.

Nervous Debility may be caused by victous habits, excesses, including overindulgence in alcoholic drinks, tobacco, etc., and it may be brought on by overwork, worry, anxiety, grief and overstudy. It is also, in many cases, due to the effects of some special ailment of the reproductive system. Nervous Debility impairs the functions of the entire human organism, Nervous, Mental, Physical and Sexual. It is an infirmity that embraces a group of special conditions which are characterized by a host of signs or symptoms, and, if not successfully treated, induce grave organic diseases that often conduct their victims to premature and unwelcome graves. Among the myriad of symptoms incident to Nervous Debility (not all of which, however, appear in a man at one time) are a continual tired feeling, extreme nervousness, mental depression, dizziness, headaches, restless nights, lack of confidence, loss of energy and ambition, palpitation of the heart, and many other alarming indications of a general undermining of the system.

I guarantee a prompt and permanent cure in every case of Nervous Debility that I + treat. I don't make an experimental laboratory of your system. Long years of experi-ence enable me to at once select the proper curative agents that your individual case and condition demand. My system of treatment is one by which the methods of nature are imitated and re-enforced. It supplies the very elements that are lacking in the impotent man and restores the nerve-wrecked and unhappy victims to robust, healthy manhood in a very short time.

Stricture Cured Painlessly.

Without Dilating or Cutting and Without Detention

From Business.

Urethral Stricture is a most aggravating and distressing disease; one that, by its strain on the system, works have with the nerves. The usual treatment for the disease is by dilation, by cutting or by the use of an electrode. All those methods of treatment effect but temporary relief. They never cure, and at the same time they cause intense suffering and pain. Stricture is due to a granular and not a muscular formation, and it must be dissolved by chemical action if a permanent cure is desired. That is the manner in which my treatment acts. As the digestive juices of the stomach digest food of all kinds without injury to the delicate membrane of the stomach, so in like manner does my treatment digest the stricture tissue without injury to the delicate lining of the urethral canal. It is easily administered at home; is prompt in its action and is absolutely painless. From Business.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles and Weak, Aching Backs.

There is no one trouble more common to men than a weak or aching back, and there is no trouble where the layman, and even the inexperienced physician, is more liable to err in arriving at the cause of this trouble. It may be due to prostatic trouble, especially in men past middle age; it may be caused by Kidney trouble; it may be simply muscular rheumatism, or it may be a reflex condition of some sexual disease. Whatever the cause, I can, from long experience, quickly discover it, and can at once administer such treatment as will cure the trouble by removing the cause. I give especial attention to all kidney and bladder diseases, and, if afflicted with any aliment of these organs, I guarantee a prompt and permanent cure, if the incurable stage has not been reached. Milky urine or a brick-dus; deposit in same, frequent, painful or difficult urination, pain in the lower limbs, pain in the back of head and backache are some of the many symptoms of a disordered conduction of the genito-urinary system, and should remind you that prompt medical aid is demanded. If you would prevent a fatal termination of the trouble.

Office Men Defeat Triple A Regulars The Office Men's Club team defeated the Triple A Regulars by a batting raily in the eighth ining that netted them four runs. The defeat of the Clarks thus gives the Office Men a clear title to second place. Woodward carried off the honors at bat making two of the longest home runs of any game in the league this season. The score by innings:

Miller-Flavens Win at Last.

Clark's "Chimes" encountered the unexpected vesterday when they were taken into camp by the Miller-Flaven team, the victory breaking the lesing streak which has kept that team in last place. The Miller-Flavens have been greatly strengthened, and obtained a good lead early in the game. In the eighth iming, however, the Grocers radiled and landed on Render for five runs. A pair of triples and two errors hearly tied the score, but the one run lead won for the Miller-Flavens, who called the great Terry of the Diels to the box in the last inning, and he stopped any further "doings" in the run line. The batting of Tregerthen was a feature. He bagged three hits and all of them were triples. Connery hit for a double and a triple. The score: Miller-Flavens Win at Last.
